

Call for entries Marta Hoepffner Prize for Photography 2023

Theme: “in different light”

Deadline: February 18, 2023

The prize honors black-and-white photography by up-and-coming professional photographers and will be presented as part of the same-named exhibition at Stadtmuseum Hofheim am Taunus, starting July 02, 2023.

With this prize, the Marta Hoepffner-Gesellschaft für Fotografie e. V. aims to promote artistic black-and-white photography and to support young professional photographers in this field. Also, the memory of the photographer Marta Hoepffner (1912-2000) is to be kept alive and the interested public is to be given a regular insight into current developments in contemporary black-and-white photography.

About the theme of “in different light”

Light is basis of photography and precondition for the creation of images. It is always in motion and thus influences the appearance of things and our view of them.

In the past three years, a great deal has changed our perception - from climate change to the Corona pandemic to Russia's attack on Ukraine. We see the world in a different light. We take a different look at ourselves and our environment.

The theme offers opportunity to use all photographic genres:

e. g. portrait, landscape, architecture, stills, documentary photography, experimental photography etc.

Application

Participation is open to trained photographers and artists in the first five years of their professional practice, as well as students from 4th semester onwards and trainees in their final year of training.

Three to five black-and-white works are to be submitted: high-quality hand prints (baryte, noble printing process or similar) or high-quality digital prints as single works or series in the format up to a maximum of 40 x 50 cm (unframed), which are not older than two years.

There will be a participation fee of EUR 25, which will be used exclusively for costs of the competition.
